History of the Class of 1932

By Elinor S. Woodbury

Four short years ago, when we became known to the world as the Freshman Class of the Mansfield High School, graduation seemed but a dream in the distant future. Since then we have steadily approached our goal, though not without frequent misgivings. Tonight we realize that our career as a class is rapidly drawing to a close and that soon we shall no longer be pupils, but alumni of Mansfield High School.

In September, 1928, the Freshman Class was divided, the commercial students remaining at the Central School, and the college preparatory students entering the High School.

At the first class meeting of the High School division, which was called by Mr. Robinson, we elected the officers for our freshman year. Joseph Harrigan was chosen president; Francis Murphy, vice-president; Muriel Hall, secretary; and Wilma Sowle, treasurer. The Junior High School division did not elect officers.

Although we did not during this first year participate as a class in any school activity, several of our members won individual distinction. Football letters were awarded to Charles Buck, Nickey Rossi, and Francis Murphy. Nickey also earned his letters in basketball and baseball.

In the preliminary speaking contest, held in April, our class was well represented by Joseph Harrigan and Wilma Sowle.

We were reunited as sophomores in September, 1929. The first class meeting was called by our adviser, Miss Lyman, for the purpose of electing officers. The result was as follows: Harold Willard was chosen president; Francis Murphy, vice-president; Nickey Rossi, secretary; Gertrude Sweet, treasurer.

Leo Fletcher, Mary Walker, and Eleanor Smith were chosen to compete in the annual speaking contest, held in April.

In December of this year we were glad to welcome Alfred DeLutis.

Again we were prominent in athletics. Charles Buck, Francis Murphy, Nickey Rossi, John Certuse, Alfred DeLutis, Hugo Blandori, and Edward Cody won awards. Margaret Burr, Dorothy Strese, and Wilma Sowle were letter members of the Girls' Basketball Team.

In June we carried out the usual sophomore custom of making the large motto for the seniors' graduation.

Another school year closed, and eagerly we put aside our books to enjoy a welcome two-months' vacation.

Returning, we took up the responsibilities of juniors, with Mr. Sargent as our adviser. We chose John Certuse for our president; Elizabeth White for our vice-president; Hugo Blandori for our secretary; and Margaret Burr for our treasurer.

At the beginning of this our third year we were happy to have Daphne Fowler, Virginia Sherman, and George Voegeli join us.

In December we were proud to display our new class rings, which were greatly admired by all our friends.

Our first real social activity as a class was the Christmas party, which we held in the gymnasium. After a short program and the distribution of gifts by Santa Claus, Tucker's Collegians furnished music for dancing.

At the speaking contest in April, once more Wilma Sowle and Eleanor Smith upheld the honor of the class.

Our previous high standard in sports was maintained through the year of 1930—1931 by Francis Murphy, Charles Buck, Alfred DeLutis, Nickey Rossi, Hugo Blandori, John Certuse, Harold Willard, and Edward Cody. Margaret Burr was captain of the Girls' Basketball Team, while Lucille Giles, Gladys Harlor, Helen Schromm, Dorothy Strese, and Wilma Sowle did notably good work for the team.

Early in June we began to make plans for the outstanding event of the year—the annual reception to the seniors. Various committees were formed, all the members of the class coöperating to make our reception one of the best ever tendered to a senior class in the Mansfield High School. For this occasion we were fortunate to obtain Bernard Loring and his Lido Venice Orchestra.

After the summer vacation, we returned happy, but dignified, seniors. With Mrs. Olsen as our adviser, we elected for this, our last year together, these officers: Ralph Chase, president; Gertrude Sweet, vice-president; Ida Morini, secretary; and Walter Lawrence, treasurer.

In October tryouts were held to select members for the various parts in the class play, "A Lucky Break". The following cast was chosen by Mrs. Olsen and Mrs. Morse, who so successfully coached us:

Martha Mullet	Marguerite Valois
Nora Mullet	Margaret Burr
Clara Belle	Elinor Woodbury

Benny Ketchum	Louis Davison
Abner Ketchum	Leo Fletcher
Mrs. Barrett	Lucille Giles
Claudia	Dorothy Hayward
Tommy Lansing	Ralph Chase
John Bruce	Henry Clark
Charles Martin	George Hanson
Jura Charente	Gertrude Sweet
Var Charente	Gino Scarpellini
Bella McWatt	Edythe Topping
Elmira Spinster	Dorothy Strese
Elvira Spinster	Eleanor Smith
Spivins	Tulio Picciandria
Tokio	Joseph Sarro
Watkins	Arthur Jodrey

DANCERS

Wilma Sowle	Margery Shepard
Robert Barre	Joseph Harrigan
Ida Morini	Mamie Lombardi
Joseph Falotico	Michael Soldani

On Thanksgiving night "A Lucky Break" was presented in the Town Hall before an audience of about eight hundred. After the play dancing was enjoyed, with music by Strople's Orchestra. A pleasing aftermath of all these activities was the delightful party given to the cast by the coach, Mrs. Morse.

This has been a successful year in all sports, through the efforts of Francis Murphy, Nickey Rossi, Charles Buck, Harold Willard, Hugo Blandori, Alfred DeLutis, John Certuse, Louis Davison, and Edward Cody. The Girls' Basket Ball Team has had an exceptional year, with Lucille Giles as captain, supported by Margaret Burr, Dorothy Strese, Helen Schromm, Gladys Harlor, Wilma Sowle, and Elinor Woodbury, manager.

Many of the class have labored long and well for the "Green Parrot".

This year Mary Walker, Edythe Topping, and Henry Clark took part in the annual speaking contest. In the historical pageant in honor of George Washington, which was presented on May 20, parts were taken by Muriel Hall, Henry Clark, George Hanson, Wilma Sowle, Margaret Burr, Lucille Giles, Ralph Chase, George Voegeli, John Scaldini, Arthur Jodrey, James Bannon, Francis Murphy, Leo Fletcher, and John Certuse.

At a class meeting on April 8, Mr. Robinson announced Wilma Sowle valedictorian, and Gertrude Sweet salutatorian. The following were admitted to membership in the Pro Merito Society: Hugo Blandori, Margaret Burr, John Certuse, Ralph Chase, Henry Clark, Lucille Giles, Arthur Jodrey, Alice Maday, Charlotte Morse, Wilma Sowle, Gertrude Sweet, Margaret Valois, George Voegeli, and Elinor Woodbury.

Dorothy Strese was chosen to predict the future, Edythe Topping to draw up the will, Dorothy Hayward to write the ode, Charlotte Morse to compose the music for the ode, and Elinor Woodbury to compile the history of the class.

Class night exercises were held in the Mansfield Tavern on May 14.

At last, after four memorable years of work and play, we near our goal. With our graduation exercises on June 22, and the reception to be tendered us on June 24 by the Junior Class, our high school life draws to a close. We shall miss the daily association with our classmates. We know that we shall miss the friendship and advice of our teachers, which we have enjoyed throughout our course. Let us each profit by this friendship and advice. Let our graduation be not a sunset but the dawn of a successful and useful life.

Prophecy of the Class of 1932

By Dorothy L. Strese

It was a warm day in June, 1950, that I returned to Mansfield. I had planned this visit in anticipation of meeting my old classmates. All my efforts were futile, however, since everything had completely changed. Massive buildings had replaced the small wooden structures of old Mansfield. The streets were crowded, and though I searched for familiar faces, I saw none. I followed the crowd for a time. Most of the people appeared to be entering a large building a short distance down the street. I realized it was a theatre. There being nothing to prevent my entrance, I walked in. The tiers of leather seats had given way to comfortable arm chairs. I was not in the least reluctant to sink into one of these.

In a few moments the lights were dimmed, and to my amazement, there appeared on the screen the words, "Vocations and Avocations of the Class of 1932, Mansfield High School." For a moment I sat breathless, eagerly awaiting the first picture.

There it was, a large modern factory. A closer view disclosed the name, Eatmore Peanut Butter Co., Valois & Valois. Next there appeared a view of the owner's office. Sitting at a ponderous desk was Marguerite, personally sampling a large jar of peanut butter. Another office was shown, where Alice Maday, assisted by Corrine Schools, was adding a long column of figures. So the old pals were still doing bookkeeping together.

Now the scene changed completely, and a large theatre in New York appeared. On a large bill-board a life-like picture of "Iggy" Burr held my attention. Looking closer, I perceived the words, "M. Williamina Burr, now appearing in person. See and hear her in Broadway's latest number, "Pass the Salt". A view of the interior showed the owner's office. A young lady, whom I immediately recognized as Edythe Topping, casually strolled in. After slyly removing the gum from her mouth, she began to pull out drawer after drawer, apparently in search of some necessary article. As her search grew more extensive, a look of alarm spread over her features. All at once her face lighted with a smile as she pulled a pencil from her hair.

As this picture faded, a laundry flashed upon the screen. Princess Delliacono, wielding an electric iron, displayed a great deal of energy, which served as inspiration for the workers under her supervision. I smiled inwardly, recalling her energetic nature, especially in English classes.

Quickly the scene shifted to a beauty parlor on the forty-eighth floor of the Wheeler Building. Stasia Piasecki, the proprietor, was expertly applying a beauty clay to a customer's face. I recognized the patron, even through this mask, as Mary Walker, star reporter of the "Tattle Tale". Suddenly the door flew open and Lilla Kelly breathlessly entered. Her face glowed with excitement. Mary, ever on the alert for news, listened to her for a moment; then both dashed out the door. Beauty clay and facials were forgotten for the time being.

Now a broadcasting station in Boston was shown. Joe Sarro, Whispering Baritone of the Lucky Strike Dance Orchestra, was crooning a heartrending solo. A close-up of the orchestra itself revealed Joe Harrigan, Gardner Walker, George Hanson, George Voegeli, Michael Soldani, Gert Sweet, and Dot Hayward among its number.

I next perceived the Grand Terminal of Greater Mansfield. Behind a huge stand stood Frances Morton, selling papers. A modern electric locomotive pulled in, and as the passengers filed into the station, I recognized Edward Cody, Home-Run King, and Charlotte Morse, composer. A great commotion was taking place at the end of the ticket line. Elinor Woodbury, late as usual, was vainly trying to push aside a fat gentleman. Elinor was head librarian in the spacious library of New West Mansfield.

Next an airplane, flashing across the screen, swooped gracefully to earth. As the pilot descended I recognized Grace Dean. The passenger alighted, swaying dizzily. A closer view confirmed my suspicions. Ray Alimenti, World's Daredevil, had just been performing on the wings.

Then I saw the familiar speedway of New West Mansfield. A large bus, driven by Billy Cornish, sped past. By the expression on the passengers' faces I could see that they were none too sure of his skill. A motorcycle, seeming to come from nowhere, whizzed by. A hasty glimpse was sufficient. Billy Dunne was still trying to become a hill climber.

The following picture was rather blurred. As it cleared, I could see a large crowd. In its center was Joe Falotico, mounted on a box, delivering a fiery speech on the advantages of living in Whiteville. One man loudly applauded. As the picture faded, I recognized him as Emerson Conrad.

Then a series of Pathé announcements appeared:

"Wilma Sowle has recently won a dance marathon, which was conducted at the "Pepper Pot", on the shores of the Winnicunett.

"Ida Morini now owns a chain of grocery stores."

"Daphne Fowler has become a model in Paris, demonstrating the perfect curtsy."

"Angelina Squadrilli has founded a home for stray dogs and cats."

"Arthur Jodrey is appearing in a picture with Greta Garbo."

"Virmadel Johnson is a successful lion tamer for Ringling Brothers."

"Eleanor Smith and Gladys Peck, noted acrobats, are touring the country."

"Sherwood Knight, who has become a missionary in the Far East, is teaching the natives the art of eloquent oration."

"Olga Cotterill has made a non-stop flight to Sharon in one of her latest inventions, a wingless glider."

"Louise Monty, noted woman scientist, has discovered a new planet."

"Lena DiGiovanni has attained fame as an astrologist."

"Leo Fletcher, famed explorer, has just completed an expedition into the heart of Africa."

"Enid Warren has become a world-famous comedienne, successor to Marie Dressler."

"Charlie Buck, owing to his height, is working for the Children's Relief Association, untangling elusive kites and gliders."

"Clair Griswold has become famous through one of his paintings portraying life in Foxboro."

"Doug DeLutis, model for Sure-Shine Dental Creme, is known as The Man with the Smile."

"Hugo Blandori and Johnny Certuse have replaced Amos and Andy."

"Harold Nordberg and Rudy Vallee are broadcasting on the same program."

"Upon the retirement of Charlie Scarborough,

Harold Willard has unanimously been elected to his position."

"Through much strenuous effort, Henry Clark has perfected a bookkeeping machine, especially designed for the use of high school bookkeeping classes."

"Joe Connor has entered into national competition with Walt Winchell."

"Walter Lawrence, discoverer of the buttonless suit, is perfecting a luminous collar button."

"Among the traveling saleswomen of the Jaw Relief Chewing Gum Company are Mamie Lombardi, Ida Matto, and Mafalda Palladino."

"John Scaldini, architect, has recently completed plans for a bird bath, guaranteed for five years."

"The inseparable pals, Gladys Harlor and Lucille Giles, are teaching the technique of basketball to the savages of Africa."

"Tulio Picciandra is appearing in person on the stage of the Parisian Theatre in Norton."

"Regina Leary is teaching school in Scoonersville, Idaho."

"Lewis Davison, chiropractor, has become a millionaire through his discovery of a new twist, guaranteed to add ten years to life."

"Elizabeth White, James Bannon, and Ralph Chase have erected an institution for the preservation of Model T Fords."

"Harry Andrews and Marguerite Wills have become partners in a collar button manufacturing company."

"Virginia Sherman has constructed a card table guaranteed not to fold up while in use."

"Helen Schromm is now a doctor, specializing in the treatment of fractured noses."

"The four men from Sodom, Bob Barre, Russ Walker, Dutchie Cobb, and Hilbert Hartwell recently returned from a trip to the Orient, where they have been searching for singing earthworms."

"Dartmouth College, newly located in Easton, has engaged Nickey Rossi and Francis Murphy as instructors in the art of self-expression, their specialty being the current hit, "The Lily and the Lamb."

"Through their unusual ability in public speaking, Albert Salachi and Gino Scarpellini have become congressmen."

"Leah Prew, Dot Marston, and Muriel Hall have become taxi-dancers in a local dance-hall."

"Margery Shepard has become matron of a home for disconsolate sailors."

"Alson Cobb, after concentrating for ten years, has published his book, "How, When, and Where to————"

But before the last picture was finished, I was rudely jostled. As I awoke, I heard someone murmur an apology. Could I have been sleeping all through the real performance and dreamed an imaginary one had taken place? I tried to appear composed as I arose to allow someone to pass before me.

"Edythe," I exclaimed, "is it really you?" For reply I received a cold look, which quickly turned to one of warm recognition. Taking my arm, she led me to the street door, insisting that I accompany her home to talk over old times.

Class Will

By Edythe M. Topping

We, the Class of 1932, of the Mansfield High School, State of Massachusetts, being of sound and disposing mind and memory, and desirous of settling our school affairs, do hereby make, publish, and declare this to be our last will and testament, making null and void all other wills previously made by us.

We constitute and appoint Mrs. Gertrude F. Olsen the executrix and trustee of this our last will and testament.

1. To the incoming seniors, we leave every book of American history, with the firm belief that they will appreciate "Muzzey" as much as we have.

2. To the incoming juniors we leave the task of initiating the incoming sophomores into the ways of dear old M. H. S.

3. To the incoming sophomores we leave the newly repaired desk tops in the Study Hall, behind which they may occasionally nibble a belated lunch.

4. To the faculty we leave our fondest hopes that our successors will welcome every opportunity for acquiring knowledge, just as the Class of '32 has done.

5. William Cornish leaves to Jack Briggs a few inches of his towering height, so that Jack, in the future, can, without any difficulty, see everything that goes on above him.

6. Mary Arayas leaves her secret of the everlasting permanent wave to Vera Julian.

7. Olga Cotterill and Stasia Piasecki leave their positions on the lunch counter to Phyllis Jalbert and Elizabeth Cochran, respectively.

8. Arthur Jodrey leaves to William Gross space in the rear of the school for parking his bicycle.

9. Frances Morton leaves an alarm clock to her sister Florence. This should prevent Florence from being late next year.

10. Helen Schromm leaves to Lois Griswold her seat on the West Mansfield bus.

11. Elinor Woodbury leaves to Gertrude Willard the task of supporting the High School lunch counter.

12. Dorothy Strese leaves her ability to keep the girls amused during basketball practice to Emma Chase.

13. Charles Buck bequeaths his football togs to Carl Harrington, with the hope that Carl may someday grow to fit them.

14. Joseph Connor leaves his ability to argue to Louis Melchiorri.

15. Dorothy Hayward leaves her well-known giggle to Henrietta Green.

16. Margery Shepard leaves her ability to keep calm, cool, and collected at all times to her younger sister, Marion.

17. Enid Warren leaves a scooter to Ethel Pazsit and offers to help her get started on cold mornings in case the radiator of her car should happen to freeze overnight.

18. John Certuse leaves his ability as an orator to Joseph Julian.

19. Alfred DeLutis leaves his athletic ability to Walter Ripley. We all hope that Rip may some day follow Doug to Fordham University.

20. Harold Willard leaves his sweet personality to William Clem.

21. Bob Barre leaves his ability to maintain a sympathetic attitude toward all to William Maxwell.

22. Lewis Davison leaves his inferiority complex to George Titus.

23. Hugo Blandori leaves his position as collector of faculty A. A. dues to the first one desiring an easy position.

24. Wilma Sowle leaves her original pamphlet entitled "What To Do and When and How To Do It", to Dorothy Stearns.

25. Ralph Chase leaves a portion of his surplus energy to John Barnes.

26. Marguerite Valois leaves a jar of peanut butter to Marion Gallipeau.

27. Francis Murphy, our official barber, leaves a pair of clippers to the next one desiring the position.

28. James Bannon leaves his position as school chauffeur to Fred Brown.

29. Margaret Burr leaves her recent novel, "Pass the Salt", to Marjorie MacDiarmid.

30. Corrine Schools leaves four extra fiddle strings to Elizabeth Hall, to be used only in case of dire necessity.

31. Joseph Harrigan leaves to the school orchestra a banjo, for ambitious musicians to practice on in spare moments.

32. Gino Scarpellini, very generously, offers to teach anyone how to dance "The Lily and the Lamb", as he softly murmurs "Practice—practice."

33. Henry Clark leaves to Earl Greany his ability to juggle trunks over unsuspecting heads.

34. Milton Cobb leaves his name of "The Woman Hater" to Leland Orcutt.

35. Louise Monty leaves her meek and unassuming manner to Dorothy Rathbun.

36. The sixth period shorthand class bequeaths a box of pencils to Mrs. Olsen to lend to stenographers who forget their pencils, even as we have done.

36. George Voegeli and Leo Fletcher leave their berets to any two junior boys who will wear them and still manage to look dignified.

38. Alice Maday leaves to anyone who may need it, a specially patented heel, which can be clamped onto any type of shoe at a minute's notice.

39. To Mr. Robinson we leave one carton of his favorite "Lifesavers".

40. To Doc Livermore we leave our admiration for a disposition which cannot be spoiled even by a rebellious heater on a cold Monday morning.

41. To the school we leave our sincere wishes for success in all lines of endeavor.

In testimony thereof we hereby set our hand and seal this fourteenth day of May, A. D., one thousand nine hundred and thirty-two.

WITNESSETH: STAN LAUREL

Salutatory

By Gertrude H. Sweet

In behalf of the Class of 1932, I wish to extend to the parents, teachers, and friends present tonight, a most cordial welcome and to express our appreciation of your interest in this, our last night together as schoolmates—the sunset of our high school career, the dawn of our journey into Life.

Before we start upon this journey, it is well for us to pause a moment to consider what our high school days have meant to us. They have been important days—days in which we have been preparing ourselves for a greater task—namely, our life work. Each of us has been fitted for one of two things: either to continue his education or to go directly to work. In either case, we have received excellent preparation.

All of us, moreover, have gained a fuller understanding of life. Because of the subjects which we have studied, and because of our associations with teachers and fellow students, our lives have been broadened and enriched.

We desire to seek the best in life and to live as fully as possible. Learning to make decisions, to find solutions to the everyday problems, to be honest and fair to ourselves as well as to others, has been a valuable part of our training.

For four years we have been gaining knowledge which will help us to understand the many difficulties which every American is facing today. We have been acquiring habits which will make us better citizens. We have learned to shoulder responsibility and to follow instructions, both excellent habits, which will mean much to us in the days to come. And tonight, as we look upon Life, we must realize that if conditions are to change, it must be because we, as coming citizens, bear our share of responsibility in the task ahead.

To our teachers, who have labored so patiently in our behalf, we desire to express our thanks. Tonight they receive, as they have received in the past and as they shall receive in the future, our sincere gratitude.

Our parents are responsible for much of our success. They have sacrificed much that we might continue to attend school, and that we might have time for study and for the enjoyment of the social life connected with high school. Because of this, we must not disappoint them. We must not permit their sacrifices to have been in vain. Although they ask for no reward beyond our earnest efforts to succeed, we would say to them in the sincerest way we know, "We thank you."

Friends, too, must not be forgotten, for they have been very helpful with their encouragement and sympathy. For their kindness we are very grateful. We appreciate it more than they can know.

And now, once again, parents, teachers, and friends, I take great pleasure in welcoming you to these exercises. Your presence at our graduation will add immeasurably to our happy memories of this evening.

Presentation of the Class Gift

By Ralph E. Chase

It has been the custom, at graduation, for the seniors of the Mansfield High School to present a class gift; and gladly, we, the Class of 1932, continue this tradition.

Two preceding classes have chosen very fine autographed pictures of Calvin Coolidge and of Herbert Hoover. Knowing that it was not possible for us to give the photograph of another living president, we turn our minds to the "Father of Our Country." Since we are commemorating this year the bicentenary of the birth of our first president, the appropriateness of this gift seemed apparent.

In behalf of the Class of 1932, I present to the Mansfield High School this portrait of George Washington.

Acceptance of Class Gift

By Carl C. Harrington

On behalf of the students of Mansfield High School, I wish to thank the Senior Class for this very appropriate gift.

This picture of the Father of Our Country will ever serve as a reminder of the class of 1932, both to us and to those who come after us. At the same time it will keep before us the ideals exemplified in the life of George Washington—ideals which are being very vividly brought to our attention this year, the bicentennial of his birth.

Again we thank you for this most fitting gift.

Valedictory

By Wilma M. Sowle

Tonight as we view with pleasure and not a few regrets the approach of the sunset of our career in Mansfield High School, there comes to mind that beautiful thought of Wordsworth in reference to the past:

"We will grieve not, rather find Strength in what remains behind."

As we bid farewell to our happy school days, we should remember that we are not completing our school life, but that we are entering a new one of such vast proportions that we cannot even imagine what the future holds for us.

Some of us will need further preparation, but eventually we shall all enter this great university called Life. It matters not in which school we enroll, be it in business, in the professions, in the arts, or in home making, there will be long and difficult lessons to learn.

To succeed in this great institution, we shall need the same qualities that we have learned to value in the school life now drawing to a close: strength—moral and physical; honesty—with the world and with ourselves; unselfishness and kindness to those who are less fortunate than we; and, lastly, good common sense, a quality that will go farther than any other in helping us to succeed.

Over this university, we shall find there is a master, exacting and unyielding. He will not point out the difficult phases of our lessons, nor will he spare our feelings, but having stood by and watched us suffer, he will teach us not to make the same mistakes again—if we will but listen to him. This master is Experience.

Upon this our last night together, we would impress upon our parents our determination not to fail, and we would thank them for their loving care and sympathy throughout our early school days.

We would take fond farewell of our teachers who have painstakingly prepared us for our new duties, and of our schoolmates and friends who have filled these happy days with memories never to be forgotten.

Classmates: In parting, let us remember that we must live for something. Let us do good and be honest. Let us leave behind us a monument of virtue that the storm of time can never destroy. May we write our names in kindness, love, and mercy on the hearts of the thousands with whom we come in contact year by year. Tonight is but a sunset on our years spent in high school; tomorrow will see the dawn of far richer and fuller days in the University of Life. In the words of the poet Charlotte Perkins Gilman, let me

"Resolve
To keep my health!
To do my work!
To live!
To see to it I grow and gain and give!
Never to look behind me for an hour!
To wait in weakness and to walk in power,
But always fronting onward toward the light,
Always and always facing toward the right;
Robbed, starved, defeated, fallen, wide astray,
On with what strength I have,
Back to the way!"

FOOTBALL

The football team has had a very successful season. Mansfield was undefeated, winning nine of the ten games played and holding Abington for a scoreless tie.

The Mansfield team was very aggressive: during the season it made 252 points against 14 for its opponents.

At a banquet tendered the team by the Lions and Rotary Clubs the following men received letters: Captain Francis Murphy, John Certuse, Alfred DeLutis, Roger Thayer, Hugo Blandori, Harold Willard, Charles Buck, Jack Briggs, Nickey Rossi, Norman Chapman, Austin Monty, Joseph Julian, John Moresco, Louis Melchiorri, and Manager Jack Davidson.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

More than twenty-five girls reported this year for basketball. Out of this number the following group was selected to represent the school:

Captain Lucille Giles, Florence Murphy, Margaret Burr, Gladys Harlor, Helen Schromm, Dorothy Strese, Wilma Sowle, Emma Chase, Annie Chippola, Manager Elinor Woodbury.

A very successful season followed. We feel that we owe our success to the fact that all the players were veterans and had profited by their experiences of the previous year.

The schedule was unusually short owing to a misunderstanding with North Easton in regard to dates, and to the cancellation of the return game with Foxboro.

The games played are as follows:

Mansfield	42	Stoughton	14
Mansfield	30	Foxboro	19
Mansfield	39	New Bedford	37
Mansfield	46	Stoughton	19
Mansfield	33	New Bedford	38

HOCKEY

The girls' athletic season began with field hockey. A number of candidates responded to the call, and inter-class competition was enjoyed by those who participated. Next year it is hoped that the school may be represented by a varsity team.

BASKETBALL

The letter men for the year were Walter Ripley, Nickey Rossi, Charles Buck, Jack Briggs, Hugo Blandori, John Certuse, and Alfred DeLutis.

The Mansfield team again won the Hockamock League Championship, winning eight of the ten League games scheduled but losing the second game with North Easton by one point. The second game with Foxboro was cancelled.

This year Mansfield played Taunton for the first time in the last ten years, losing both games. Mansfield also played Sharon and St. George's Preparatory School.

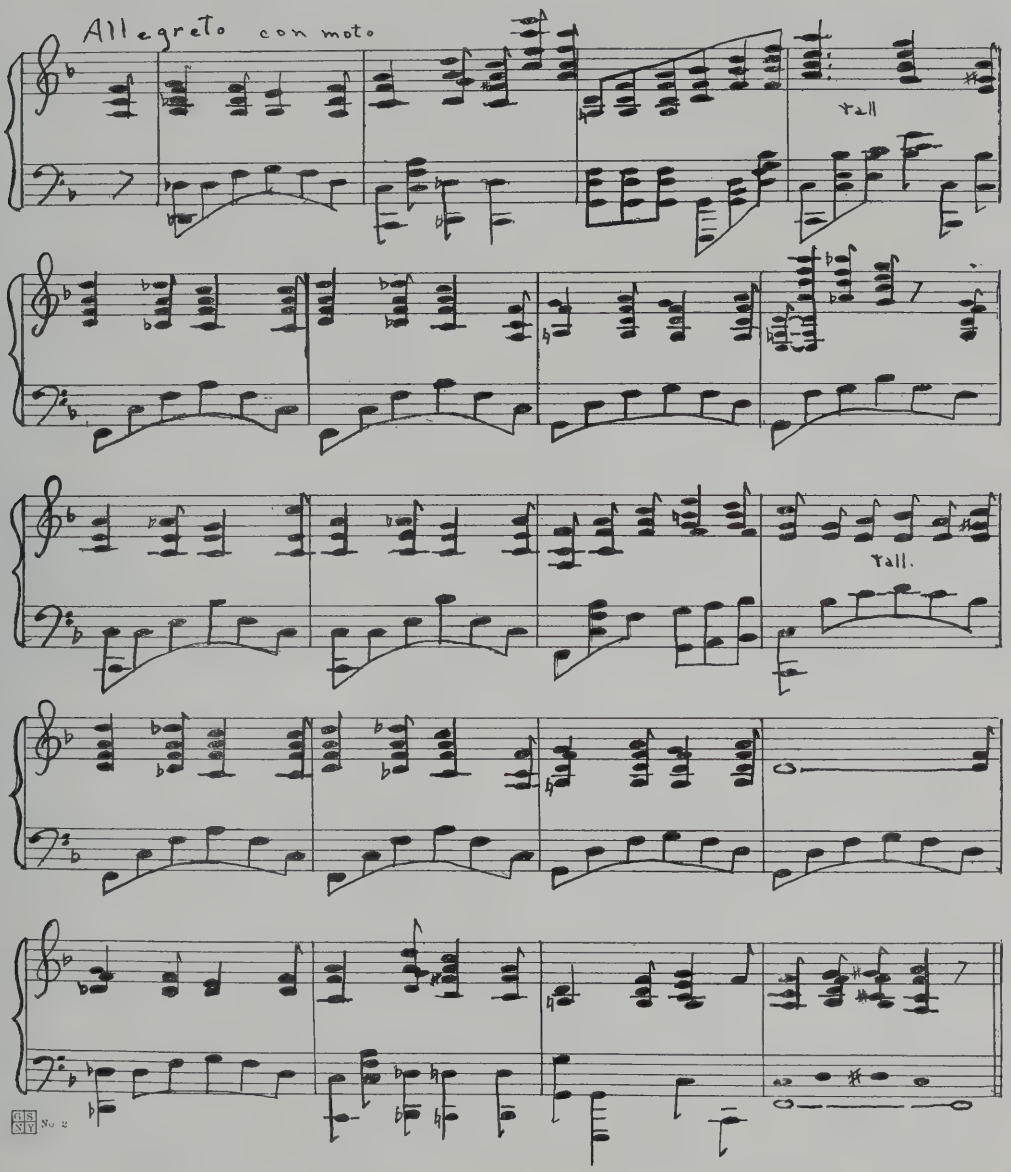
Class Ode

Music by Charlotte L. Morse



Words by Dorothy A. Hayward

The time has come, dear Thirty-two,
A new life to begin;
Far greater tasks have we to do
If we our goal would win.

The labyrinth of days we've known,
The mingled cares and mirth,
Have made us stronger as we've grown
To understand life's worth.

These fleeting years of joy and strife
Will e'er to us remain
A background for a nobler life
In all we seek to gain.

Dear Father, may Thy guiding light
Direct us in our ways:
Help us to live our lives aright
Throughout the coming days.

No Longer——

must the housewife be a slave to her housework

The low rates for electric current in Mansfield are extremely favorable for the extensive use of modern electric appliances throughout the home.
